ASBURY WOODS | The Year of Water

Asbury Woods is thrilled to announce a new initiative to help us achieve our vision that Northwestern Pennsylvania be a region where protection of and appreciation for natural places is a deeply held personal and community value. As a way to delve deeper into important environmental and conservation topics, we will begin year-long themes that allow us to explore subjects in a robust and multi-disciplinary way.

We are kicking off this new approach to programming with The Year of Water. Water is one of the world's most vital natural resources and our region's strategic location adjacent to Lake Erie makes the topic of clean water and sustainable use of fresh water a matter of local, regional, national, and global significance. Whether we are drinking it, recreating in and on it, living on its shores, or using it for industry, Lake Erie and its watershed surrounds us and is an inescapable part of the fabric of our community. With Walnut Creek, a major tributary of Lake Erie, passing through Asbury Woods' property, water was a natural choice to kick off our yearly themes.

Our goal is to provide programs, forums, materials, and experiences which engage people of all ages in a conversation about the importance of water and appreciation for this precious resource. We hope that individuals and the community as a whole will learn how they can take action to protect water. Starting with this newsletter, you'll notice programs with a symbol to indicate they are part of The Year of Water programming. We will also share relevant materials through our various communication channels: website, blogs, email, and social media.

In addition to our internal team, we'll be partnering with topic experts, individuals and organizations who can add expertise, provide research data, and share new ways to view and appreciate water. January will be our first such program with Amber Stillwell, Coastal Outreach Specialist with PA SeaGrant, for a discussion about aquatic invasive species and their impacts on wetland ecosystems.

During 2023, the Asbury Woods exhibit hall will become a host site for Trouts in the Classroom, a national program that helps demonstrate the everyday relevance of healthy watersheds and engages youth in active stewardship.

Later in the year we will be unveiling a major collaboration with renowned artist and Erie native, Kevin-John Jobczynski. As his fine arts career has led him to working with brands such as Disney, Lucas Films, ESPN, the NFL and others, he remains inspired by his memories of visits to Asbury Woods as a student at Asbury Elementary School. Kevin-John will be working on an original piece of art that captures the spirit of The Year of Water at Asbury Woods.

FROM OUR EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Happy New Year!

A new year and more new programs and projects are underway at Asbury Woods! I'm thrilled that 2023 will be The Year of Water at Asbury Woods. As an Erie native, water has played an integral part in my life. In my youth we hiked along and played in Fourmile Creek. As an adult, I spend my most joyful hours sailing, kayaking, wading and just taking in the beauty of the creeks and our lakeshore. Water is such a key part of life in our region and seemingly so abundant that it is easy to take this incredible freshwater resource for granted. So in 2023, Asbury Woods will undertake a year-long focus on water. Programming, articles, speakers and more will help shine a light on this amazing natural resource.

Jennifer Farrar, CFRE
Executive Director

We are also looking forward to a revised approach to maple season at Asbury Woods. Our talented education team has planned a variety of ways for the public to engage in maple sugaring at Asbury Woods. One new way is to look for the lit-up maple leaf on the sugar shack when you are visiting. If that maple leaf is on, come on in and see the process in action!

Finally, Asbury Woods has completed the series of property acquisitions that we have been working on for two years. In April 2021 we acquired 11 acres of property along West 38th Street and in December 2022, we closed on another 40 acres. The 40 acres were previously owned by Mercyhurst University and our existing trail network traversed their property. These newly acquired acres are now permanently conserved land.

Asbury Woods enters 2023 hopeful that we can continue to educate, inspire and protect, and we couldn't do it without the thousands of supporters who contribute, volunteer, and advocate on our behalf.

From the Woods,

Asbury Woods
